Lake, Chad	Army Sgt. Chad Lake of Ocala was among three soldiers who ventured out in a Humvee in the wee hours Sunday to investigate rocket fire that was bombarding his camp area in Balad, Iraq. It was cold, below 30 degrees, when the military vehicle failed to negotiate a turn and overturned in an icy river. Members of Lake's platoon were desperate. They jumped in the freezing river and tried in vain to save Lake and the others. Lake, 26, a member of the Army's 5th Squadron, 7th Cavalry, 3rd Infantry Division, died, along with two other soldiers, one from Iowa, the other from Louisiana. Lake's family in Ocala said he loved the Army and was a strong leader. He made them proud. Born and raised in Ocala, Lake graduated from North Marion High School in 1996. He and a couple of buddies enlisted in the Army in 1999. He has since re-enlisted twice, said his stepfather, Worthy Farr. Lake started out in the Army's air-defense unit, Farr said. When that unit was phased out, Lake was transferred to the cavalry as a scout. "His mother asked him what that meant," Farr said. "He said it's when you see the enemy and hopefully they don't see you." Farr said Lake excelled in the military and has been to Iraq three times. He served in Desert Storm and Operation Iraqi Freedom and was deployed again Jan. 10. Farr said the family heard about Lake's death Sunday. Since then, dozens of friends have stopped by to remember him. Lake's father, Ken Lake, said his son loved sports and entertaining his two nephews and a niece. "I'm very proud of him. He was a good kid," he said through tears. Farr said Lake would be remembered as friendly, likable and easygoing. "This kid didn't get upset about anything," Farr said. "He was a well-liked guy."

Lamberson, Randall	Dana Lamberson said attraction was immediate to her childhood sweetheart, U.S. Army Sgt. 1st Class Randall Lamberson. Their 15-year marriage left her with memories of a funny, handsome and courteous Springfield native devoted to his family. "He had a sense of humor, and he never lost it, even though it was a serious job," Dana Lamberson said. The 36-year-old Kickapoo High School graduate died April 10 in Balad, Iraq, from injuries suffered after an explosive device detonated near his vehicle in Ar Ramadi the day before. Lamberson's family will receive friends and relatives from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday at Calvary Baptist Church on U.S. 60 in Republic. Funeral services are at 10 a.m. Friday at Calvary Baptist Church. A funeral procession will be led to Missouri Veterans Cemetery in Springfield. Bill Lamberson of Lampe, Randall's father, said the family appreciated local residents' support as they made funeral arrangements. "It's the most difficult thing a parent can do," he said.

	As a boy, Randall Lamberson was a fun-loving youth who wanted to be a firefighter or police officer, his father recalled. He loved baseball and animals, Bill Lamberson said. He played for a Little League team and had a dog, parakeets and gerbils. He kept physically fit as a teenager by exercising and eating proper foods, his father said. Randall Lamberson joined the U.S. Army in November 1988, serving in Operation Desert Storm and Operation Iraqi Freedom. Bill Lamberson was not surprised when his son excelled in the military. "He was an excellent father, a perfect son and a professional soldier," he said. "He was 110 percent what he needed to be." Dana Lamberson said her husband joined the military for adventure and a desire to serve the country. He was later inspired by the "hope of freedom" he saw among Iraqi children during his mission there, she said. The Republic-area native met her spouse when he was a 12-year-old boy growing up in Battlefield. A few years later, they started dating. Randall Lamberson's military career took his family including children Kelsi, 13, and Evan, 10 to numerous posts around the world. His final assignment was with the 101st Airborne Division in Fort Campbell, Ky. Kevin Lamberson of Clever, one of Randall's brothers, said his sibling could be soft-hearted. As a child, Randall Lamberson got upset if something bad happened to one of his animals, he said. The soldier was allowed to come home from Iraq a couple of years ago just before his mother's death, his brother said. The death seemed difficult on him, he said. "He was the toughest and bravest guy I knew, but he had that side to him," he said. In lieu of flowers, U.S. Army Sgt. 1st Class Randall Lamberson's family requested donations be made to any US Bank for the Kelsi and Evan Lamberson Education Fund. Walnut Lawn Funeral Home in Springfield is handling funeral arrangements. Source: Springfield News-Leader, Springfield, MO, April 19, 2006, extracted September 23, 2007.

Liebetreu, Joseph M.	Funeral services for Joseph M. Liebetreu, the 43-year-old former Ludington man slain last week in the Houston area, have been scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday at Oak Grove Funeral Home and Cremation Center in Ludington. The family will receive friends for visitation 6-8 p.m. today and 10 a.m. until the time of service Friday. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery in Ludington. The oil company executive and his fiancée, 40-year-old Amandre Wilson, were gunned down at Wilson's Houston Heights townhouse early Dec. 15 just after returning from a fund-raiser for Big Brothers Big Sisters. It appears robbery was the motive, according to Houston police. The front door was kicked in, and Liebetreu's wallet and Wilson's purse were missing. Liebetreu worked for Exxon Mobil, where he was a team leader in logistics. He was a member of St. Martha's Catholic Church of Kingwood, Texas, and also attended services with Wilson at the Second Baptist Church of Houston.

	He was a 1980 graduate of Ludington High School and that year entered the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., with a congressional nomination. He later transferred to Michigan State University, where he was in the Army's Reserve Officers Training Corps. He was commissioned an Army officer in 1984 and served until 1991, based primarily in Virginia but traveling extensively. He had a leadership role in the 1990 U.S. deployment to Saudi Arabia and Kuwait during Operation Desert Shield and was later decorated with the Bronze Star for distinguished service during the First Gulf War. Following his honorable discharge, he worked in a series of logistics-related jobs before joining Exxon Mobil in Houston. Liebetreu is survived by his parents, Roger and Donna Liebetreu of Ludington; his daughter, Natalie Liebetreu, of the Houston area; his sister, Vickie Williams of Ludington; two brothers, David Liebetreu of Tennessee and Donald Liebetreu of Grand Haven. Lilley, Arthur L.	When Elizabeth Lilley sent a package to her son serving in Afghanistan on Tuesday, she wrote a message on the outside: "If undeliverable, give it to any soldier." Her son, U.S. Army Master Sgt. Arthur L. Lilley, 35, was killed Friday during a firefight in the Paktika Province, near Shkin, Afghanistan, military officials announced Saturday. Lilley, of Smithfield, Pa., was on combat patrol when he was killed by enemy small-arms fire. He was a Special Forces sergeant assigned to the 2nd Battalion, 7th Special Forces Group (Airborne) at Ft. Bragg. Lilley joined the Army in 1990, serving with the 101st Airborne Division in operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm. He served in Italy before joining Special Forces in 1996, and he went to Ft. Bragg in 2000 as part of the 96th Civil Affairs Battalion. He was assigned to his current unit in August 2005. Joining the military was "all he ever dreamed of, and I don't know why," his mother said. Lilley wanted to be an air traffic controller for the Air Force but was colorblind. So the Army became an option he never regretted, she said. It was either the military way, God's way or nothing for Lilley, who was active at St. Andrews United Methodist Church in Fayetteville, his mother said. Lilley was a youth minister there while his wife, Christine, ran the church school. The high school sweethearts, who have two children, would have celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary in August. Lilley's tour in Afghanistan was to be his last. Elizabeth Lilley last talked to her son a week ago. He was about to spend a lot of time in the field, but his tone was upbeat. He gave his parents a list of goodies to send, including dried fruit, trail mix, Slim Jims and his favorite -- Doritos. For years, Elizabeth Lilley has sent her son packages, which take up to two weeks to deliver. She can't explain why she wrote what she did on this last one. "I don't know why I did that," she said. Lilley is survived by his wife; daughter, Mackenzie, 9; son, Cole, 7; parents,

Lentz, Lawrence "Larry"	Remembrance: Lentz was a pilot, leader at heart By Jan Jonas Tribune Reporter January 21, 2006 As a kid, Lawrence "Larry" Lentz used to tag along behind his older brother, Bill Lentz. "We were always playing tricks on him and trying to get rid of him," Lentz said.

As Larry Lentz grew into a man, he became less of a follower and more of a leader.

Lentz, born Jan. 21, 1945, was 59 when he died of cancer Jan. 13 at the Veterans Medical Center in Albuquerque.

Lentz graduated in 1962 from St. Michael's High School in Santa Fe, attended St. Michael's College there. He was living in Santa Fe when he died.

In the mid-1960s, Lentz joined the Marines, becoming a helicopter pilot during the Vietnam War, flying rescue missions in 1966 and 1967.

"If it was a hot LZ (landing zone) and they (soldiers) were in trouble, he was one of the first that made sure they were taken care of," said Col. Jack Jones II, a friend who served in the Guard with Lentz.

When Lentz returned to Santa Fe in the early 1970s, he finished his bachelor's degree in history at St. Michael's College.

In 1973, he joined the New Mexico Army National Guard. He came in as a captain.

Lentz, Jones said, soon realized if he wanted to advance in rank, he would have to give up flying full time, so he reverted to a non-commissioned rank of warrant officer. It let him stay in the cockpit.

Lentz flew injured prisoners to Albuquerque for treatment after the prison riots in Santa Fe in 1981.

Just before the riots, some prisoners escaped, Quigley said.

Fearful Santa Fe residents wanted helicopters flying over their homes. Lentz spent hours lighting up the area.

As an Army National Guardsman during the first Gulf War, Lentz volunteered to serve there. He flew the C23 Sherpa, Jones said.

"It's an ugly airplane, a stubby thing with two engines used for moving troops, personnel, VIPs and cargo," Jones said.

Jones teased Lentz about flying such an ugly plane.

"Larry didn't care as long as he was flying," Jones said.

In the late 1990s, when he was back in Santa Fe flying for the Guard, he took a position flying in support of the Drug Enforcement Agency, customs and the Department of Defense.

Flying the Kiowa OH58 helicopter, Lentz's job was to help stop the flow of drugs from Mexico to the United States along the border.

He also was the first safety officer the Guard had. The unit has about a 28-year accident free record, said Maj. John Fishburn.

"One of the biggest reasons was because he was so safe and was by the book," Fishburn said. Accidents can be part of any pilot's experience, and Lentz took chances but only when the risks were low. CW5 Richard Quigley, a high ranking chief warrant officer in the guard, worked with Lentz since May 1974. Quigley flew several rescue missions with Lentz in the mountains and gorges throughout the state. Fishburn said one time a man drove his car off the road into a gorge near Los Alamos. Lentz recovered the person who was hurt. "It was windy," Fishburn said, "and the helicopter had barely enough power to carry those folks out of there." At his death, Lentz had clocked more than 11,000 flying hours. One of Lentz's favorite Bible verses was Matthew 5:9. "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God." Jones has a saying he uses to describe people he respects: "Words whisper and actions thunder," he said. "Larry Lentz's actions have always been thunderous." Services were followed by interment at the Santa Fe National Cemetery on Friday. Source: The Albuquerque Tribune, Albuquerque, NM, Jan. 21, 2006
